Update at JMS

by Piper Benjamin

Greetings from JMS and Happy Holidays to all of you! We would first like to thank the Deaf community for all your support and interest this past year. Without people like you, we would just not be the same! We have had some wonderful volunteers come into our school this past year to share their time and energy with us, and we appreciate that so much. Please know that we always welcome you and love to have you working with our students.

We would like to tell you a little about what's been going on at JMS and introduce you to the new teachers that started working with us this fall. We are lucky to have undergraduate and graduate degrees. Emilie, also Deaf, is from Washington state and attended Gallaudet University for both her undergraduate and graduate degrees. We hope some of you have the chance to meet and welcome these two wonderful women to our town.

The students and staff at JMS have been very busy this year! We are, as always, focusing lots of our energy on literacy skills and also the many other things that our academic curriculum entails. The 4th grade class recently had a wonderful opportunity to learn Kenyan rock sculpturing by a visiting artist. He worked with them for a few weeks, and their work turned out amazing! The 1st and 2nd graders are now beginning a unit on ancient Egypt with their teacher, Heather Tucker. Our middle school students have had some great times this year. They have had the chance to work on their volleyball technique with Jennifer Caldwell-Shewell and have had some Deaf Studies lessons and ASL development with Laurel Stimpson and Christopher Palaia. They are constantly amazing us with their improvements in their reading and writing skills.

If you know of anyone or any students interested in visiting or joining JMS, please let us know! We always welcome new students and are excited to see our school grow. JMS has been doing some great fundraising this year and had an exciting donation of $160,000 recently. This money will ensure our continuation next year, which we are deeply grateful for. We are going to be moving to a new building next year, and are still on the search for the best facility we can find.

Happy Holidays to all of you and thank you again for your support!

Miss Deaf Utah's Report

President's Message

by Ron Nelson

Everything begins with a small step.

The best way to make a resolution that you will achieve is to write a SIMPLE step and go from there. Often, the hardest thing to do is to take that first step!

UAD has taken some steps by setting up committees and selecting chairs for each committee. Each committee is important and can make a BIG difference by making many small steps. They need each and everyone of you!

Happy New Year!

20 Years Ago

January 1984 - As if there wasn't enough excitement about the Center (in Bountiful) at its dedication on November 5th, it had more excitement on November 27 in the early hours when firemen with fire trucks responded to a call from a Bountiful policeman to put out a small fire that started in the stoker of the coal furnace in the north part of the Center. At this time, the coal furnace is shut down until funds can be found to convert it to gas.

The modern gas furnace at the south end manages to keep the entire building at a comfortable temperature. The auditorium and gymnasium, as well as the Center kitchen, are closed off except when needed.

Retirements

Two Utah Independent Living Center employees retired in December - Darlene Cochran on December 19, and Diane Williams on December 31.

Darlene had worked for 13 years while Diane put in 19 years with the agency. They were honored at a retirement luncheon by SCCDHH staff on December 19.

UILC presented each with a brass pendulum clock and a crystal candy dish, and SCCDHH gave each a silver vase filled with a dozen roses.

Miss Deaf Utah's Report

I am sure there will be some obstacles I will have to face, and I will face them with a determined mind and a happy heart.

Have you made new resolutions for some room of improvements?

My resolutions of year 2004 are 1) improve my time management, 2) enjoy myself as Miss Deaf Utah, 3) represent Utah well during the Miss Deaf America Pageant, and 4) do my best in college. Wow, there will be many events to come in year 2004.

As in my global point of view, it seemed a new step for Iraq to make after their leader has been captured and the gate of freedom has been open for them to choose to go in or go another way. I hope we all will have a safe and wonderful year as we will look for more news for United States of America's activities in other countries and as well as with our own nation too. I sincerely wish you a Happy New Year!

Ticket to Work

If you receive SSI (Supplemental Security Income) or SSDI (Social Security Disability Insurance) benefits from Social Security, you will receive a Ticket to Work soon in the mail. The Ticket to Work invites you to try to work. Ticket to Work does not mean you must work. It does not mean you will lose your benefits. It means you can contact Vocational Rehabilitation or any other Employment Network to assist you to prepare to work or to help you find employment. If you have questions how going to work will affect your benefits, you can make an appointment with a benefits specialist. Benefits Specialists can assist you to understand how going to work will affect your Social Security benefits. They can meet you at your home or in an office at Workforce Services near you or at a Vocational Rehabilitation office near you. For a meeting with a Benefits Specialist, call Margot Dana at 801-887-9500 to request an appointment. Please tell her you want an interpreter for the meeting.

You can contact the Vocational Rehabilitation office to meet with a VR counselor who works with Deaf and Hard of Hearing people. The VR counselor can explain the Ticket to Work and assist you to find a job.

MDUP's Belated Appreciation

by Kristi Mortensen, Advisor

My deepest apologies to Sprint for not including them in my recent article about the Miss Deaf Utah Pageant that took place at the Robert G. Sanderson Community Center for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing on November 22. Right after the pageant, we had a beautiful post-pageant reception honoring the sponsors, contestants and their families, UAD Board Members and spouses, and the MDUP Committee. Sprint sponsored the post-pageant reception with a delicious buffet by Apple Spice.

The caterer was so brave about driving in the snowstorm that paralyzed the valley. One of the blessings of having a snowstorm is the natural refrigerator. Sanderson Center has one refrigerator and one freezer, apparently it wasn't big enough to keep all the food cold for more than two hours. We had to put all the food on the cart with wheels, cover them with tablecloths and leave them in the courtyard. The food was cold but delicious!

During the post-pageant reception, the contestants received beautiful wrapped gifts donated by different cosmetic shops. Judges, auditors, and the emcee were presented with beautiful engraved gold paperweights in the shape of a star. Without Sprint's sponsorship, the post-pageant reception would not have been possible -- so our heartfelt thanks goes to Sprint. There were several other sponsors who helped make the Miss Deaf Utah Pageant possible, especially Camille Call-Garcia, Carole Peck, Treva Parry, and a couple of volunteers who jumped in to help decorate the reception to look beautiful and festive. Thank you all from the bottom of our heart.

JMS Charter Meets Federal and State Goals

Utah charter schools scored a perfect 12 for 12 under new federal performance standards that recently dinged a third of the state's public schools.

JMS met their goals for student participation and achievement on state tests in language arts and math. JMS met the academic achievement goals under No Child Left Behind.

JMS's success along with other charter schools' successes in Utah could build political momentum to expand school choice during the 2004 legislative session, which begins next month. Lawmakers already have filed bills to loosen the state's charter-school law and authorize tax breaks for parents who pay private-school tuition.

The AYP reports are a cornerstone of No Child Left Behind's accountability provisions, which require public schools to improve academic achievement of all ethnic, language, disability and socioeconomic groups. To show whether they are indeed improving, schools had to report 2002 and 2003 percentages of kids who passed and their rates of participation on state tests.

Charter schools are taxpayer-funded public schools. They are empowered to use innovative teaching methods, but they must adhere to most of the same financial and educational standards as other public schools.

Nineteen charter schools have opened in Utah since the Legislature authorized them in 1998. Twelve of them are old enough to be subject to AYP this year.

Charters have another advantage: active parents. "It's hard to measure that our teaching technique is why we've done so well, but I believe it is one of the reasons," said Eric Smith, president of the school board at Lindon-based Timpanogos Academy, a K-6 charter.

"Another is that charters are successful because the children are children of parents who really care about their education."
